BLACK TIE ◆ WHITE TUXEDOS WELCOME

PASSED ON TRAYS ALL EVENING

Griddled baby corn

Little ears blanched, then charred in butter on a hot flat-top. Crushed red pepper, lime zest and salt, with a wedge to squeeze.

Best eaten like corn on the cob.

Red caviar canapés

Salmon roe and snipped chives on crème fraîche over crisp water crackers, put together just before they go out.

An acquired taste. DO NOT try the caviar.

Chicken satay

Thigh meat marinated in garlic and soy, grilled on bamboo skewers. Warm peanut sauce for dipping.

Thank you all for a big year. Tonight, have fun. That is an order.

Supper & Sweets

From eight o'clock. Help yourself, and come back as often as you like.

FROM THE CORNER CART

Corner cart hot dog

Simmered, then blistered on the griddle until the skin snaps. Steamed bun, yellow mustard, sauerkraut and onions stewed down with tomato.

Have two. Nobody is counting.

Hot soft pretzel

Twisted by hand, baked deep brown and scattered with coarse salt. Mustard on the side.

SOMETHING BIG

The giant cookie

Brown-butter chocolate chip dough pressed into a pizza pan and baked soft in the middle. Piano keys piped across in white icing, cut at the table.

Big enough for four hands.

Cotton candy

Spun to order at the cart, pink or blue, on a paper cone.

Just like Sea Point Park.

THE SODA FOUNTAIN

Chocolate egg cream

Syrup and cold milk in a tall glass, then seltzer poured hard from up high and stirred with a long spoon until a white head rises.

No egg, no cream. Never was.

Kiddie cocktail

Ginger ale over ice with a splash of grenadine and a maraschino cherry.

Fresh lemonade

Squeezed this afternoon, sweetened just enough, plenty of ice.

Coffee and tea

Fresh-brewed regular and decaf, hot tea, cream and sugar.
