SECOND AVENUE AT 88TH STREET DINNER TILL TWO

Edie's RESTAURANT & SALOON

The bridge at first light. Our last tables often end up here. 3

CHAPTER ONE

AT THE BAR — FROM SIX O'CLOCK

MANHATTAN 2.50

Rye, sweet vermouth and bitters, stirred with ice and poured straight up over a cherry.

The pitcher for your table, 17.00.

CROSTINI MISTI 2.75

Little rounds of French bread, toasted. Ricotta with lemon peel and honey, or mushrooms, garlic and thyme under Parmesan.

SHRIMP COCKTAIL 4.95

THE KITCHEN STAYS OPEN TILL TWO

CHAPTERS TWO TO FOUR

Edie's

Brunch on Sundays from eleven.
Supper every night, late.

CHAPTER TWO

SUNDAY BRUNCH

Sutton Place platter 5.50

Toasted bagels, cream cheese, sliced Nova, capers, red onion cut thin and fresh dill.

Wrapped to go for the bench by the bridge.

Belgian waffles 3.50

Crisp squares with maple syrup, sweet butter and berries in season.

Dachshunds welcome at brunch.

CHAPTER THREE

LATE SUPPER

Chicken Kung Pao 7.25

Diced dark meat stir-fried hot with dried red peppers, soy, rice wine and black vinegar. Roasted peanuts, scallions and rice.

Szechuan style. Packed to go for the late movie.

Linguine, white clam 7.75

Littlenecks opened in garlic, olive oil and white wine, with parsley and a pinch of red pepper.

Veal piccata 9.50

Thin scallops sauteed in butter, finished with lemon, capers and a splash of dry vermouth.

The back table, everyone talking at once.

CHAPTER FOUR

DESSERTS

NY cheesecake 2.50

Lemon and vanilla, dense and rich, on a buttery crumb crust. Baked slow, chilled overnight.

Worth living for, the regulars say.

Pears in red wine 2.25

Bosc halves poached with cinnamon and orange peel, heavy cream alongside.

Our answer to Cézanne.

Espresso .95

Short and strong, a twist of lemon. Sambuca .75 more.

FROM A REGULAR

Best room in New York to argue about Bergman until two. Get the cheesecake. It's on my list.
